

YEAR FOUR

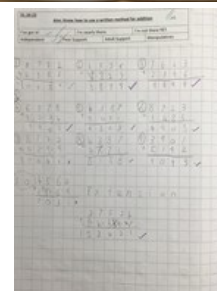

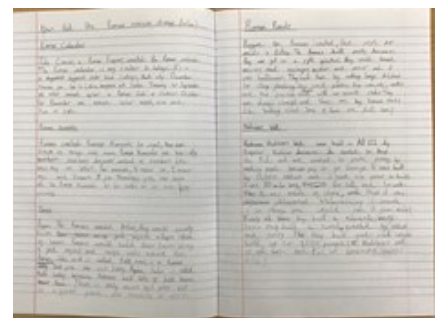

This week...

We have been busy with our first week of the new term! We have been continuing our work on the Romans and in particular volcanoes and the eruption of Mount Vesuvius near the Roman city of Pompeii.

We have also been revising formal column methods to add and subtract with exchanges in Maths. In English, we have started work on a newspaper report about Pompeii and the volcanic eruption.

At the end of last half term...

Before the half term holiday, we were busy finishing our Writer's Showcase of a diary entry for one of Boudicca's soldiers. We were building our skills for adding and subtracting 4 digit numbers with exchanges in maths. In topic we created a Non-Chronological report which answered our big question 'How did the Roman Invasion Change Britain?'
